

Intercultural communication in action

Written by Международный отдел

Thursday, 17 January 2019 14:11 - Last Updated Thursday, 17 January 2019 15:07

Foreign students from Smolensk State University took part in a volunteer action to clear snow in the yard of military equipment of the Museum "Smolensk region during the Great Patriotic War 1941 – 1945". This event was a continuation of the joint project between Smolensk State University and Smolensk State Museum-Reserve, aimed promoting intercultural communication, Russian language, cultural and historical heritage of the region. For students and their accompanying representatives of the International Department and the Faculty of additional education was organized a friendly tea party, an excursion in the Museum, a thematic work shop. Representatives of the Museum-Reserve thanked the participants for their help and foreign students, in their turn, noted that such projects are very important for them both in terms of social cultural adaptation and for the development of the language space of the Russian picture of the world.

