About the university

Smolensk State University is one of the oldest universities in Russia. It was established on 7 November in 1918 by the decree of the Council of People's Commissars. At first the university combined humanitarian, natural-science and medical educational areas.

According to the decision of the government about a reform of higher and secondary vocational-technical education, on 18 April in 1930 the university was reorganized in two independent institutes. They were Smolensk State Teacher Training Institute and Smolensk State Medical Institute.

On 13 January in 1998 Smolensk State Teacher Training Institute was renamed, it became Smolensk State Teacher Training University. But the modern part of the university history begins on 19 December 2005 when according to the order of the Federal Educational Agency Smolensk State Teacher Training University was renamed again and became Smolensk State University. This decision was not a formal renaming; the status of the classical university was returned back to it.

On 13 April in 2011 the organizational form of the university was changed, it became state-funded according to the order of the Ministry of education and science of Russia. Our modern name is a federal state government-funded educational institution of higher professional education "Smolensk State University".

Now there are 8 faculties, 40 departments of the university, more than 480 lecturers and professors. There are also 75 doctors of science and about 300 candidates of science and associate professors. In recent years more than 30 lecturers and professors became full members and member-correspondents of Russian and foreign academies. They are also in big international societies and associations of scientists.
